Aldermen approve charter amendment

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen has voted to amend the city's special charter.

The amendment to the charter deals with redistricting and was requested by the U.S. Department of Justice, Board Attorney Lucien Gex said Tuesday.

Gex said the amendment must be advertised three times and a public hearing must be held. If no objections are received or less than 10 percent of the voters object, the amendment will become effective.

The board authorized Gex to draft the amendment.

Gex said he received the request from the Justice Department during the department's processing of Waveland's recently submitted redistricting plan.

The plan should be approved in time for the city election in November, Gex said.

The election is set as an off-year election by the charter, Gex said.

In other business Tuesday, the board:

—Took bids for materials for water system extensions on Farrar Street and Vacation Lane;

—Discussed but took no action on purchase of a computer system for city hall; and —Discussed a drainage complaint from J. C. Cotton.

The board meets again at 7:30 p.m. June 18.

Ruble Griffin of Bay St. Louis, Democratic nominee for a post on the Mississippi Supreme Court, checks totals from the 29 counties in the Southern District via telephone on Tuesday night from his residence here. Griffin was in a close race with Laurel Attorney Jon Swartzfager. Unofficial returns in 99 percent of the precincts in the 29 counties showed Griffin capturing 35,000 votes to Swartzfager's 35,954. In Hancock County Griffin received 3,179 to Swartzfager's 530 votes. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Hancock voters firm in desire for change

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County voters cast an overwhelming vote in favor of changing the county's operation from a beat to a unit system on Tuesday.

The Hancock County Election Commissioners are scheduled to meet this evening to certify Tuesday's unofficial results which showed a 2,342 vote in favor with 1,455 against a unit system.

Strongest support for the change in the county's operation of government came from Diamondhead Community which voted 387 in favor with only 11 opposing the referendum. Electors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland favored the change.

Dedaux Community registered the strongest vote against the unit system with 16 for and 97 against while Flat Top Community voted 14 for and 76 against the change.

A stronger voter turn out for the special election was evidenced in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Diamondhead than in the rural areas of the county.

Hancock County Supervisor President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, on Wednesday morning said, "I am kind of disappointed in the rural (voting) turnout, the people for the unit system really got out and shook the bushes."

"The people have spoken, and we (supervisors) are going to give it our best shot," Kellar added.

Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Vice-President Anthony

Loiacano on Tuesday night stated, "I am both pleased and overwhelmed at the show of support for the unit system. The chamber will continue to work with the Board of Supervisors to help implement our county's new form of government."

"The supervisors extended the opportunity to the voters through a referendum, and hopefully we can be a model county under the unit system in the state of Mississippi," Loiacano added.

Glenn A. Smith, president of Diamondhead's Property Owner's Association, and Betty Claggett, president of Diamondhead's Community Association, were both elated over the results.

Smith stated, "I am terribly pleased with the outcome, and I am very thankful for the supervisors bringing this issue to the public to vote on. We are trying to bring a better, more responsive government to the people."

"Our next goals will be a push for a county-wide building code and zoning throughout Hancock County," Smith added.

Claggett allowed, "It's wonderful, I am just frankly thrilled at the outcome, as it is more than I had anticipated. I am terribly pleased with the people of Diamondhead's Community."

Supervisor Bert Courge said, "The biggest thing is that only 15 percent of the people are telling the other 85 percent what to do. The fact is that I will do my best to make it (unit system) work, as it has a lot of good points."

Supervisor Pernciaro commented, "I don't think we had a good enough turnout of voters, yet the majority of those who voted did vote for a unit system."

"If we hire an administrator, superintendent, or whatever his title will be, he will answer to the supervisors," Pernciaro emphasized, continuing, "I hope it doesn't restrict the services to the rural people too much."

Chuck Benvenuti, a member of the chamber's task force stated, "The surprising part is the fact that with so little information put out to the public, it passed so overwhelmingly. It appears the public is ready for a change."

Kellar was disappointed in the outcome, as were other supervisors who had opposed change from the beat to a unit system.

Kellar said Wednesday, "I for one am going to look at the metro type of government, it appears the people want to save money."

"The first thing to look at will be law enforcement, there are three in the county with a lot of duplications which are so costly," the board president added.

Kellar continued, "The three law enforcement agencies must have a combined budget of $1.25 million a year. If we really want to have more efficient service, the metro type of government may be the real answer in all phases of the county's operations with schools included."

Supervisors approve BaySide fire district

BY DENA BISNETTE

Residents of BaySide Park, part of Lakeshore and part of Bayou Phillips have obtained county approval for a new fire protection district.

The Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Tuesday to approve the district, which will enable the BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department to receive more tax revenue for operation, maintenance, equipment purchases and other purposes.

A public hearing on the matter has been set for June 26 at 10 a.m.

Under legislation passed during the 1986 session, a tax of up to four mills can be levied for fire protection districts.

Existing districts can not receive more than 10 percent over the amount they received the previous year, but the cap is not likely to apply to new districts for the first year, Board Attorney Walter James Phillips said.

The petition requesting the approval contained 282 signatures and was presented to the board by Attorney Michael Haas Sr.

Haas said the district will include parts of Lakeshore and Bayou Phillips because the BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department already serves those areas.

In addition, the district will handle waste disposal and water matters.

The board addressed a second matter regarding BaySide Park Tuesday when the supervisors were presented a petition from the BaySide Park Civic Association.

The petition requested that the county take some action to clean up several lots association members consider hazardous.

According to Mary Caillier, who presented the petition, the lots are overgrown and serve as breeding places for mosquitos, snakes, rats and other vermin.

The board must contact the landowners and give them a specified time in which to correct the problems before allowing a county crew to clean the lots, but in cases where health hazards are found the county may clean the property without the owner's permission.

The board turned the matter over to Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge who will inspect the lots in question and present a report to the board at its June 12 meeting.

In other business, the board:

- Agreed to advertise for bids for equipment for the Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department; and
- Authorized Board Attorney Walter James Phillips to obtain a state attorney general's opinion regarding whether it is legal for the county to repair driveways in exchange for rights-of-way along Fire Tower Road.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. June 12.

Du Pont confirms Hotel demolition plan

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Du Pont Company officials Wednesday confirmed reports that the Pine Hills Hotel on the Bay of St. Louis would be demolished this summer.

The five-story hotel and former monastery building is owned by Du Pont which considers the building an "attractive nuisance" and a safety liability.

"We feel it is in the best interest of the community and the company that the building be removed before someone is seriously injured," D. L. Settle, Du Pont Deltale plant manager, stated in a press conference at the plant.

The 50-year old hotel has been unoccupied for more than half the time since opening in 1928.

The 1929 crash of the stockmarket led to closure of the hotel which has also served briefly as a veteran's hospital, barracks for soldiers during World War II and a food distribution center following Hurricane Camille.

Occupying the building for the longest period of time was the Oblate Fathers operating for some 15 years a seminary called Our Lady of the Snows.

Settle continued that the age of the building, the years of abandonment and the lack of maintenance have all contributed to the hotel's deterioration.

"We are therefore proceeding with plans to dismantle the building using explosive charges," Settle stated.

"The timetable is still in question, but we would hope to have the building dismantled by August, 1986," he added.

Settle said bids have already been received from two firms to demolish the building.

Schwabacher critical after bicycle mishap

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Bay St. Louis resident Sherry A. Schwabacher is in critical condition following an accident on US-90 Wednesday morning.

Schwabacher, 36, of 117 St. Charles St., was traveling on a bicycle when she was struck by a vehicle driven by Brian W. Bennett, 24, of Waveland.

Mississippi State Trooper Fred Keel said the circumstances of the accident had not been determined and no charges had been filed at this time.

Keel did add that the investigation was continuing and that citations had been issued to Bennett for driving with a suspended drivers license and for an expired inspection sticker.

Schwabacher is in the intensive care unit of Hancock General Hospital.

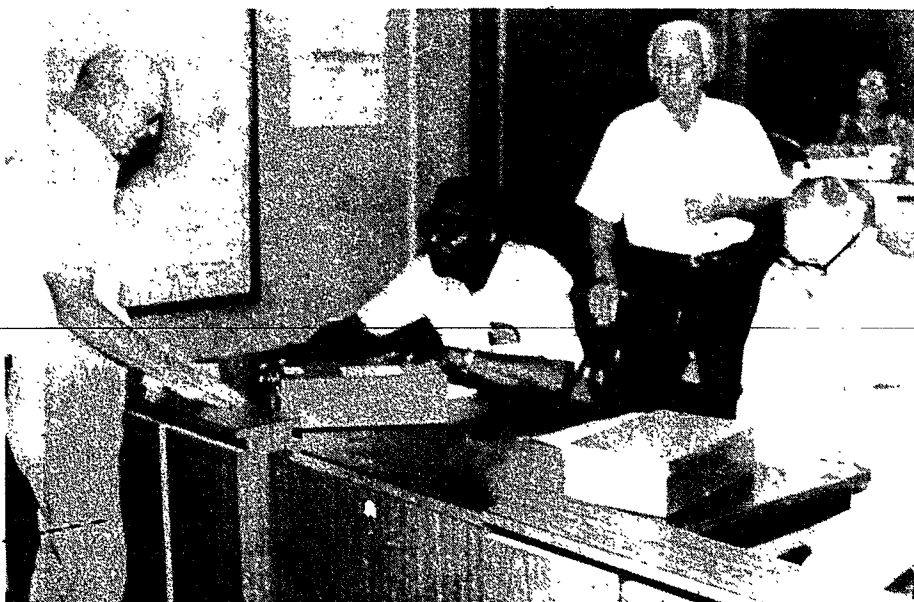

Hospital spokesman Mary Perkins said Schwabacher had undergone surgery Wednesday.

According to Perkins, Schwabacher sustained fractures of her left leg, right arm and pelvis. She is reported also to have sustained a fractured vertebrae and fractures to two ribs in the incident.

Schwabacher was on her way to work at the U.S. Army Ammunition Plant at NSTL at the time of the accident around 5:15 a.m., sources report.

Rice, that long-time staple which often turns a humdrum dinner into a festive occasion, especially in our Southern cookery, is the basis or principal ingredient of so many tasty dishes that it's all but impossible to list them!

And, oh, what a marvelous stretch-er rice is for cooks and gourmet cooks and would-be-gourmet-cooks. A few lonesome pork chops or chicken bits or a handful of shrimp are easily extended into a special dish, with the addition of rice and a few other touches such as mushrooms or peas or artichoke hearts or whatever's on hand and suits your fancy at the moment.

Rice, cooked with your own homemade stock or bouillon cubes or granules or leftover gravy or sauce, or what-have-you, is a delicious way to stretch many dishes, with onions and celery and sometimes tomatoes and peppers added.

This way, it tastes a bit "meaty" and needs not too many additions, such as a bit of meat or chicken or seafood, to make it a dish fit, if not for a king, at least for all of us commoners!

And to my "chinchy" - that means, somewhat on the cheap side - school of gourmet cooking, chicken livers are one of the tastiest extras to add to that rice-and-such for a feast.

Chicken livers are still relatively inexpensive, even in these inflationary days. The cheapest way, or course, is to make it a practice to stockpile the livers, reserving them each time you cook a chicken or chicken parts, when you're lucky enough to get the liver along with the purchase.

Freeze the livers as you cook the remainder of the bird - and in not too much time at all you'll have enough to give you a delightful dinner that's almost free - and that's not a word very applicable to these sky-high inflation times, is it?

And, if you don't do this - or, if, like I, you are addicted to chicken livers and can't resist cooking 'em up and devouring whatever's on hand at once, buy them frozen in cartons or otherwise when they're on sale.

At any rate, here's a tasty combination of rice and chicken livers, a good "stretchable." Here's:

CHICKEN LIVER PILAF

1 lb. chicken livers, approximately, give or take what's on hand

 4 Tbsp. butter or margarine
 2 medium onions, chopped - or green onions, chopped
 5 or 6 Tbsp. sherry
 1 to 1½ cups raw rice (that means, uncooked)

- 3 cups stock, broth or bouillon, as above

3 Tbsp. olive oil
 Pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce to your taste

Heat the oil in a heavy skillet or saucepan (for me, my cast iron pot, rather, one of them) and add the chopped onion, cooking until it's transparent and starting to brown. Add the raw rice, and stir over somewhat medium heat until the rice grains start to brown here and there in the pot, then add the three cups of stock or whatever, which you've brought to a boil while the rice is reaching the proper point of "doneness" as our family cook used to call it.

Stir the whole business rather well, cover the pot, turn the fire the lowest of low, and let it all continue cooking for another 15 or 20 minutes or so, or until you can fluff it with a fork so that the grains stay separate.

Meanwhile - you haven't been loafing around, have you? - cut the chicken livers into halves or quarters, the smaller you cut them, the further the whole dish will stretch. Cook over medium heat just a very few minutes, as liver of any kind, like so many other good things,

Sunken boat at Bayou Cadet to be removed

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has given the owner of a sunken boat in Bayou Cadet two weeks to move the vessel.

The boat is located near the public boat launch and is making the launch difficult to use because larger boats collide with or bump against the sunken vessel, Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge said Tuesday.

The boat is owned by Joseph Everett of Lakeshore and sank about two years ago.

The top part of the boat is visible above water and the deck is visible at low tide, Courge said. He has contacted both the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Marine Resources about having the boat removed, but without result.

Because the boat is located in a county canal, the supervisors are legally authorized to remove the boat if the owner is first notified through the sheriff's office and fails to do so, Board Attorney Walter James Phillips said.

Courge said the county has a dragline that can be used to remove the boat if necessary, but the vessel is in a deteriorated condition and will probably fall apart during the removal operation.

The board also discussed a sunken boat that is blocking a private canal in Lakeshore.

The boat is one of three that have sunk in the canal, but it is keeping shrimpers from using the canal to get to public waters.

The canal itself is owned by Lambert Bordages, but Bordages does not own the sunken boat in question.

Courge said he has also received complaints about that boat and asked for authorization to contact the owner for permission to remove the boat.

He also asked Phillips to find out if the boat can be removed anyway by the county if the owner refuses to either move the boat himself or to grant permission for its removal.

The board meets again June 12 at 9 a.m.

Georgia firm prepared to seek financial backers for hotel restoration project

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The president of a Georgia development firm stated Wednesday the company is willing to seek financial backers for restoration of the Pine Hills Hotel if an agreement could be reached with owners, the Du Pont Company.

Du Pont verified Wednesday that the 50-year old hotel is scheduled for demolition by August.

"The Pine Hills Hotel is a national treasure and should not be destroyed," said Sandy Taylor of Taylor-Ward Properties Ltd. of Atlanta.

Taylor has been interested in the hotel for several years and prior to its purchase by Du Pont was preparing plans to have the hotel restored as it was when it opened in the late 20's.

She said several reports compiled at that time showed the building had weathered the years well and was structurally sound.

"Pine Hills is definitely restorable and I really believe restoration financing could be obtained," she added.

Taylor's firm specializes in historic restoration and having these properties listed on the National Historic Register.

"The architectural uniqueness of the building alone would qualify the building for preservation," she said.

Taylor said the hotel's construction style, which features poured concrete and steel rods, is also probably the only one of that type left in the United States.

"Pine Hills Hotel could be a 5-star hotel and I feel it would be a good investment and would be able to pay for itself," Taylor added.

Taylor said she had talked with Du Pont officials immediately after they purchased the property but they were not interested in restoration program despite possible benefits.

Apparently Du Pont officials have not changed their position as they stated Wednesday they would be glad to listen to any proposal but the answer would probably be no.

the building but that no decision has been made yet.

According to Settle the rubble following the demolition of the building will be disposed of in an environmentally sound manner either in a landfill, used to ballast seawalls along the coast or to enhance present fishing reefs in the Mississippi Gulf.

He also said the company realized the demolition plans will meet with mixed public reaction and that it had considered the feeling of area residents who have emotional ties to the structure.

"However, the condition of the building presents a danger to anyone who enters without proper supervision and we are not equipped to provide security to prevent people from doing so," Settle said.

Security around the building is breached almost weekly and the company has had to evict several trespassers, he continued.

Settle said there were many "unsavory" happenings in the building and that law enforcement officers at one time had removed a "Manson-type" gang from the property.

"The hotel is also a favorite place for exchanging controlled substances," he added.

"The only alternative is to remove the structure," Settle stated.

When the building was purchased in 1984 it was included as part of an overall plan to use the grounds as an environmental buffer for the Du Pont plant, he said.

"There have never been any plans to restore the building because of the prohibitive costs," Settle said.

He added that the company is not interested in the hotel being restored even if Du Pont did not have to put up any money.

Also according to Settle, the grounds around the hotel have been leased to the Du Pont Employees Recreational Association.

This association has active plans to build recreational facilities on the grounds, he added.

Prior to the press conference, Settle and other Du Pont officials met with representatives of the Pine Hills Historical Society.

The press was not allowed to attend this meeting.

Settle said in that meeting he had asked the society's assistance in preparing a plaque which will be placed on an "appropriate marker commemorating the structure's existence and utilization over the years.

The cross from the tower will be used as the centerpiece of the marker.

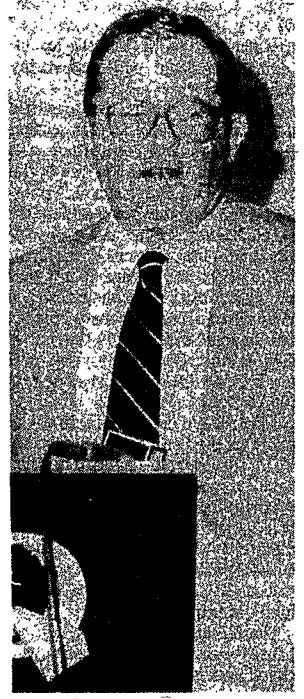

In a telephone interview late Wednesday historical society president David Wiseheart said he was not giving up on the possibility of saving the building.

"Our meeting with Du Pont officials did go well, but we will continue to search for an alternative method to preserve the building that will be acceptable to Du Pont," he said.

Wiseheart said he believed the society had a responsibility to the public, community and state to take all steps possible to save the hotel.

However he did question the company's claim that destruction of the hotel was necessary to protect the environment of the plant while announcing their intention to build a type of community center at the site.

Bay system lags in preparations for kindergarten

We wonder just how much advanced notice our Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School System needs in order to provide adequate space to educate our children.

The information on the need of classrooms for kindergarten for the Fall of 1986 was no big secret and known for several years.

At the 'eleventh hour' it is now decided that trailers will be used for kindergarten classes.

Oh, yes! The term 'Modular Double Classroom Units' is used in the advertisement to make it sound good, but the fact remains, the buildings advertised for are trailers.

What a start in the educational process for our youth. They begin an educational journey of hopefully 17 years in a trailer.

The Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland have ordinances banning the use of trailers or modular homes for residences or businesses, shouldn't this also apply to classrooms?

Wake up Bay St. Louis Municipal School System, we are almost in the 21st century.

The annual State Champion Fiddling Contest sponsored by Fip Johnson of Bay St. Louis is scheduled for Saturday at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

The event is set to begin at 8 p.m. with a first-place prize of $150 and trophy for the champion fiddler.

Johnson says some 20 fiddlers are scheduled to perform.

There will be band, best vocal, and best buck dancer awards.

All proceeds are to go to charity, according to Johnson.

During the month of June, a one-man art exhibit will hang at the Waveland Library on Coleman Avenue.

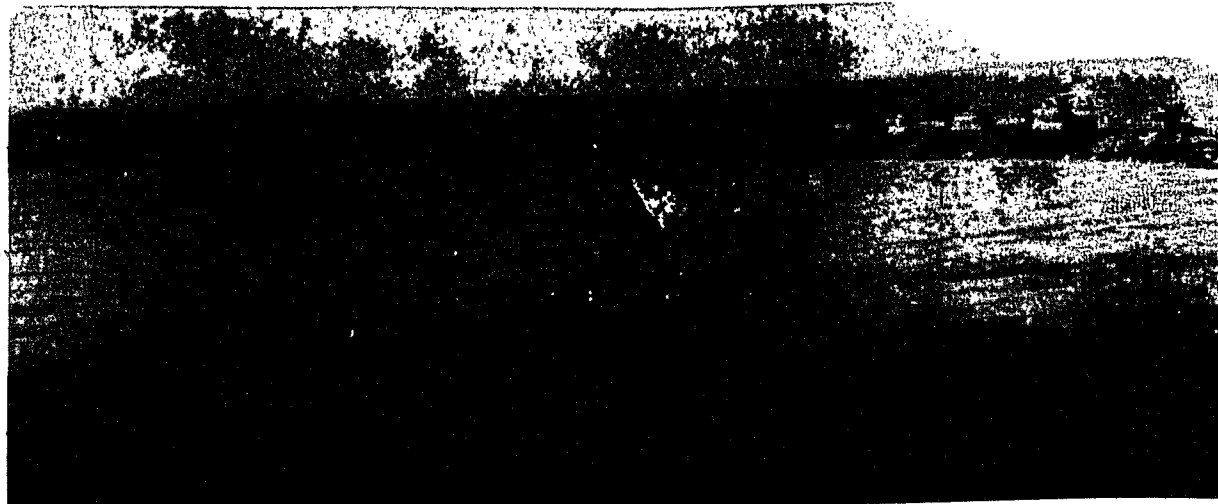

The works of local artist and art instructor Carl Baldenhofer will be on display at the library.

During the month of May, the library featured the works of young students of Baldenhofer.

As many of you know, Baldenhofer has been conducting art classes for folks of all ages in the area.

As a matter of a fact, one of the paintings in my office is the work of Mr. Baldenhofer presented to me on behalf of the Senior Citizens.

It is a painting of the former plant of The Sea Coast Echo on South Second Street.

BUSY LAUNCH—Shrimpers were lined up to Beach Boulevard waiting to launch on Wednesday morning at Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139's Memorial Pier in Bay St. Louis. They were ready for the opening of the season at 10 a.m. Choppy waters cut down on a number of smaller boats for the opening day of the season. The sinking of two small boats near St. Charles Street on Wednesday morning was investigated by the Bay St. Louis police department. Other vessels were reported in trouble due to the choppy waters in the Mississippi Sound, but no injuries were reported. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If fishermen do not keep bridge clean, keep fishermen off the bridge

June 1, 1986
The Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Sir:

With reference to the editorial picture in last week's Sea Coast Echo regarding the disgusting mess of dead fish on the Bay Bridge, I would like to urge the officials in charge of the bridge to stop all fishing from the bridge.

On Saturday, May 31, I had occasion to cross the bridge back and forth twice and on both occasions more and more fish were being thrown down and left. In fact, when I came back over the bridge around 5 p.m. one car was leaving and all around the area were dead fish.

There is a sign on the bridge warning of a fine of $500 for littering. Perhaps if people were really and truly fined for littering, an effort would be made to throw the fish back into the water, where at least the crabs would dispose of them.

Failing that, then I believe the bridge should be closed to pedestrian fishermen.

While on the subject of ugliness in the area, as of May 31, one week after their Fish Festival, I notice that St. Clare School officials had made no move to remove the signs they had put up advertising the event.

I feel that there are far too many signs as is scattered around the place and that people or groups who put up such signs should be made to remove them once the event is over and done with.

Let's try to encourage a sense of pride in our surroundings.

Sincerely,
Valerie Fisher

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—By a narrow vote the other day, Gov. Bill Allain's citizens committee studying the 1890 Constitution said it favored keeping the state's traditional bi-cameral Legislature rather than recommending a one-house or unicameral Legislature.

That the unicameral idea did not prevail should not discourage constitutional reformers who believe a one-house Legislature is the way of the future among the states of the Union.

What is more important is that a governmental concept which not very long ago would have been considered too radical to even merit discussion in Mississippi has become a prime subject of public debate.

It is a subject on which even staunch supporters of constitutional reform can disagree. In fact, that was the case when the constitutional commission debated it last week. Unfortunately, the debate came late in the day when quite a number of commission members had already left to return home. The closeness of the vote indicates the issue will be heard from again before the commission makes its final recommendations.

From our eighth grade civics book we all remember that historically, only one state in the nation, Nebraska, has had a unicameral Legislature, and all the rest bicameral. The good old Cornhusker State has had only one house going back to 1834, and it is known as one of the better governed states in the Union.

What, of course, prompted a lot of other states to start thinking about a one-house Legislature is the consequence of the "one-man-one-vote" doctrine applying to state Legislatures handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court back in 1961.

Many Legislative observers have come to realize that it doesn't make good sense to have two branches of a Legislature, since both represent people...the same people. That is a situation which isn't going to change, because the Supreme Court has already made it quite clear it doesn't recognize geographical units such as counties, having entitlement to legislative representation.

Another factor that has come into focus as a result of a massive nationwide effort among states to cut down on governmental overhead is the cost of operating a two-house Legislature, versus just one house.

Here in Mississippi, the story of soaring legislative expense is a classic one. Back in the latter 1970's, the cost of running the Mississippi Legislature was only a little over $4 million per year. That cost has jumped to $10 million last year, and only because of the pressure from having to make across the board cuts in every other phase of state government, did the lawmakers this year trim about $200,000 out of their contingent expense funds.

But the Mississippi House and Senate have done virtually nothing in years toward curbing legislative overhead. Rather than doing things jointly, they have done them separately, duplicating expense. For instance, there hasn't been a joint interim study committee since 1978 when the two houses fell out about the chairmanship of a joint committee.

A glaring case of failure of the two Mississippi legislative bodies to work together came after the beginning of annual, limited sessions in 1970. The Eagleton Institute study on reorganizing the legislative process to cope with annual sessions recommended creation of a permanent Joint Legislative Management committee to coordinate operations of the two legislative branches, including supervision of staff personnel and formulation of the legislative budget.

What happened? Instead of creating the Joint Management Committee, the two branches went their separate ways, with the House having its own management committee as a vestpocket group for the Speaker, and the Senate its own Services Committee.

Then after Brad Dye became Lieutenant Governor, he abolished the Services Committee so he could take charge of all patronage personally.

Estimates are that if the Mississippi Legislature were reduced from two houses to one, about the size of the 122-member House, the saving in Legislative expenses would amount to $2 to $3 million. What's more, the technical assistance to a single-house Legislature could be considerably improved.

One of the most interesting sidelights of the 1986 regular session of the Mississippi Legislature was the attempt to reduce the size of the Legislature which remarkably passed the Senate, later being rejected in the House largely because of opposition from black lawmakers.

The effort proved one thing: that any attempt to reduce the size of the Mississippi House, where blacks now have 18 seats, or 16 percent of the total membership, is going to be run head-on into the federal Voting Rights Act.

Blacks have only two seats out of the 52 in the Senate, or 3.8 percent, so in the overall Legislature they have 11.4 percent. Some reason that it would be much easier for Mississippi to get Justice Department clearance if it created a one-house legislature of 122 members, since the black percentage would actually improve.

The old argument for having two houses, because one can serve as a check against the other is still quite persuasive, even among the more liberal constitutional reformers. But that mostly stems from the long experience of having a tight little undemocratic clique dominating the Mississippi lower chamber.

None would argue that until more guarantees of a democratic system are instituted in the Legislature, especially in the House, there is going to be some fear that a one-house Legislature could become another little dictatorship.

Special Session notable for its failures

Mississippi Reporting Service
Special Session of the Legislature

By Rosa Lee H. Jones

The special legislative session that ended Sunday is perhaps most notable for what it failed to accomplish.

The session was called after the legislature in April failed to override Gov. Bill Allain's veto of the Highway Department budget. Without legislative approval, the department would have been without a budget beginning July 1.

Allain got the $12 million cut in the $436 million Highway Department budget he wanted but his victory was tainted when he failed to get the Senate to go along with his plan to divide the money between the state's small colleges, junior colleges, and welfare and mental health departments.

So the $12 million will be in limbo until the legislature convenes in January when it could even be put back into the highway department's budget.

The House voted to spend the money as recommended by Allain, but the Senate failed to go along.

Senators voting against spending the money said they didn't want to use the $12 million for recurring expenses because it would not be available for those agencies again next year.

They refused to take the money from the Highway Department permanently unless it was replaced with the authority for the Highway Department to issue bonds.

Sen. Robert Crook of Ruleville disagreed, "I find it indefensible for the Senate to vote to remove $12 million from the Highway Department...if we're not going to spend it. There's no question the money can be used effectively."

Agency heads bemoaned the failure of the legislature to redistribute the funds citing the number of jobs lost to their agencies. Welfare Department's acting director John Fraiser said that the $2 million proposed to go into his budget would have saved 259 positions in county offices. He is expecting to terminate 600 employees, 450 in county offices and 150 in the state office.

Mental Health Department was to receive $3.6 million under Allain's plan of distribution. Without that money, mental health director Dr. Jan Duker says, between 200 and 225 positions will be cut from regional centers and Whitfield will not be able to hire around 80 needed employees.

Without the $4 million that would have been funneled into smaller universities around the state, their budgets could be sliced by as much as 28 percent.

Northern District Highway Commissioner Zack Stewart says the cut in his agency's budget will mean the elimination of 100 full-time positions and the loss of 300 summer jobs.

Allain placed the blame for the failure to spend the money on Lt. Gov. Brad Dye and the Senate majority that would not vote to spend the money unless bonding was approved. "Now the 27 senators and the lieutenant governor are going to have to take the responsibility of defeating the program," he said.

Finally, the legislators failed to establish a joint committee to study the needs of the state highway system and to consider Allain's proposal for a department of transportation.

In spite of that, Rep. John Pennebaker of New Albany, chairman of the House Transportation Committee, told House members that he intends to have a plan when the legislature reconvenes. He is planning to hold public hearings around the state on the department of transportation proposal later this year.

Even though most of his plan was defeated, Allain was pleased that the Highway Department's budget was cut. "It was successful in that we proved our position that the Highway Department could take a cut of $12 million," he said.

The five-day special session cost the state approximately $125,000.

SENATE VOTES

This vote was taken on Wednesday and in it the Senate substituted a $436 million appropriation for the $424 million appropriation for the Highway Department. This vote passed, but the Senate later went along with the House version and passed the $424 million appropriation that the governor had requested. Yea - 30; Nay - 21; Gene Taylor - Nay; Martin Smith - Nay.

This Senate vote killed the transfer of funds ($12 million) from the Highway Department to the general fund for use in other departments. The final passage was 32 to 17 to allow the transfer. Two Senators paired. Taylor - Nay; Smith - Yea.

This vote was to concur with a House Resolution to end the session no later than 6 p.m. Sunday. This vote was taken after the House failed to go along with bonding authority for the Highway Department. The vote passed 27-21, and effectively killed any chance for the Senate to reconsider and allow the $12 million to be placed in the general fund and spent. Taylor - Nay; Smith - Nay.

HOUSE VOTE

On the first day of the session, the House voted 90-23 to approve funding of the Highway Department at $424 million. Phillips, Yea.

On Sunday, the House refused to concur with the Senate in a resolution urging the governor to include bonding in the special session (For 48, Against 62).

Earlier, both chambers had approved a four-member House-Senate committee to make recommendations for the future of the Highway Department. The Senate reconsidered that recommendation and later attached it to this resolution, so when the bonding authority died, so did the joint committee. Phillips, Absent.

Weekly Summary
from
Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

JACKSON—A prime objective of the recent special session of the Mississippi Legislature was to see that the state highway program has funds to operate in the coming year. That responsibility was fulfilled.

An appropriation bill totaling $424,453,974 was approved to defray operating costs of the Highway Department in the fiscal year starting July 1.

While this is $12 million less than requested by highway officials, the action does remove the uncertainty that has clouded the issue of highway funding since the regular 1986 session ended April 11.

A $436 million allocation was approved for highways in the regular session but the bill was vetoed by Gov. Bill Allain, making the special session necessary.

The session began Wednesday, May 28, and ended on Sunday, June 1, with members of the House of Representatives and Senate sharply divided over the $12 million removed from the Highway Department funding bill.

The House voted to use the $12 million to meet other crucial needs in such areas as mental health, county-level welfare services, state universities, and junior colleges.

But the Senate rejected a House-passed measure to clear the way for the $12 million to be used for these purposes. Attempts to resolve differences were unsuccessful, leaving the $12 million to sit in a Special Fund account.

Some legislators argued the money should not be used for recurring expenses, but the prevailing sentiment in the House was that the funds are urgently needed now in view of the state's tight budget situation.

Another key factor in the House-Senate disagreement involved bonding authority for highways, with Senate members seeking unsuccessfully to get the governor to allow lawmakers to consider a bonding bill.

There was mixed feeling among House members over bonding authorization. Some Representatives indicated they would be willing to look at a bonding bill, especially if the bonds are tied to specific road projects, but a number of legislators maintained the expense of issuing bonds should be avoided except as a last resort.

The governor, who has the power to limit matters handled in a special session, declined to expand the scope of the session to include highway bonding or other matters sought by a number of legislators.

The House adopted a resolution in an effort to come up with a viable compromise and deal effectively with the problem of highway funding.

Under the resolution, a joint legislative committee would have been directed to develop a comprehensive plan to meet the state's immediate and long-term transportation needs and recommend alternative road funding proposals.

The resolution died, however, after being revised by the Senate in another attempt to persuade the governor to include road bonding authority in the call for the special session.

The appropriation bills passed earlier by the House died in a Senate Committee.

These bills would have provided $4 million for community mental health services around the state; $4 million for state universities, including nearly $1.4 million for the five institutions not designated as comprehensive universities with the remaining $2.6 million divided equally among all eight institutions and the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory; $2 million for junior colleges; and $2 million to the state Welfare Department to minimize a cutback in welfare workers at the county level.

Despite a sense of disappointment that all of these issues could not be resolved, there was a feeling among House Members that they had done their best to meet their responsibilities and deal with the complex problems facing them.

Case expected to go to jury in McNeal death

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The case is expected to go to the jury Thursday in the Vicksburg murder trial of Donald McNeal.

The former Biloxi policeman is charged with 1965 shooting death of his 23-year-old wife, Darlene.

Mrs. McNeal was last seen on Sept. 28 and reported missing by her husband Oct. 1. Her body was found Oct. 2 in a wooded area off Interstate 10 near Slidell, La.

McNeal took the stand in his own defense Tuesday and questioning continued throughout Wednesday.

During the cross examination McNeal was vague about specific dates or times when he last saw Mrs. McNeal. He said he was unable to do this because it was so long ago.

McNeal also testified that when he was told of his wife's death, he broke down and had to be left alone to compose himself and broke down again when taking law enforcement officers to his house to be searched.

McNeal did state he had spent most of the time from when Mrs. McNeal was last seen and when her body was found cleaning up debris at their house caused by Hurricane Elena.

DARLENE COLLIER MCNEAL

He also testified he began remodeling of the house during the same time. The remodeling included painting the living room and installing new carpet.

The prosecution contends that McNeal did the remodeling and burned a couch to cover up the shooting of his wife.

McNeal claims he burned the couch after spilling paint on it.

The defendant also testified he and Mrs. McNeal associated with different groups of people.

Prosecution Attorney Michael Moore of Pascagoula has called more than 20 witnesses in the seven days of the trial to aid the jury in the "complicated" case.

Moore told the jury they would have to "fit the pieces of the puzzle together."

Prosecution witnesses include a Louisiana pathologist who testified Mrs. McNeal had died from a single gunshot wound to the head fired from a 9-mm weapon; Jackson County law enforcement officers who told the court about McNeal's weapons which included a 9-mm machine gun and that McNeal had $200,000 with McNeal as the primary beneficiary.

Defense attorneys Ray Mitchell and Russell Reed stated that McNeal had not filed a claim on his wife's policy.

Woodrow Reader Jr., a representative of Aetna Life and Casualty, told the court a $100,000 policy would be paid regardless of the outcome of the trial.

If found innocent, McNeal would be the beneficiary, but if found guilty, his two-year-old daughter April will receive the benefits, Reader said.

McNeal's sister Levan Nicholson, the final witness to appear Friday, said McNeal left his daughter with his parents in West Virginia when he visited there the week his wife's body was found.

The trial was moved to the Warren County Circuit Court because of excessive publicity in Jackson County prior to the trial, according to the district attorney.

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said Tuesday night, "Tomorrow I will start to work on the unit system."

Upon hearing the outcome of the voting, Waveland Mayor John Longo stated, "Since it (unit system) passed, I feel the people have spoken, and I feel the public was really strong for the unit system."

"I really think the supervisors will get behind this thing and make it work, make it effective and fair. But I think to make it fair that at some later date we will have to redistrict the county to insure more equal representation," Longo continued.

On the 'ethics amendment,' Hancock Countians voted 773 for and 2667 against while voting on the assessment resolution was 1295 in favor and 1714 against.

State-wide the 'ethics amendment' was defeated. A constitutional amendment to adjust the ad valorem tax schedules failed in Hancock County but passed statewide.

Hancock County Farmers invited to run for county committee

Eligible farmers in Hancock County are invited to become nominees for the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) County Committee, FmHA County Supervisor Frank W. Niemeyer Jr. reported.

As a result of the 1985 Farm Bill, two of the three members of FmHA county committees must be elected. The third member is designated by FmHA. The Hancock County committee assists the FmHA county office in determining the eligibility of applicants for certain types of FmHA loans.

Generally, farmers who are residents of the county but not FmHA borrowers are eligible to become nominees for the FmHA county committee.

"Farmers in this county, serving on the committee, play an important role by assisting in the process of loan applicants and reviews," said Niemeyer.

For this first election only, two members will be elected at the same time. One member will be elected for a term of one year, and one member will be elected for a two-year term. In the future, all terms of services will be for three years each on a staggered basis.

Nominating petitions must be returned to the FmHA Hancock County office by June 10.

Additional information and application forms for those who are interested in becoming nominees for the county committee are available at the FmHA county office Suite "H" Hancock Square, Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis, MS or by calling 467-9008.

Arkansas is for the birds. And that, folks, is a compliment. If you're planning to be in Arkansas area — and if you love birdwatching, and missed much of the action this spring, take heart. There's the famous SEPTEMBER BIRDS event in Lake Chicot State Park this September. You can watch all sorts of activities of our feathered friends. On September 20, the HAWK WATCH is on in Pinnacle Mountain State Park. And if your fancy for flying objects isn't restricted to feathery species, enjoy the BATS: FACT & FANCY program at Pinnacle Mountain State Park on Oct. 28. While these critters aren't birds (they're mammals) they're fascinating and essential to our environment.

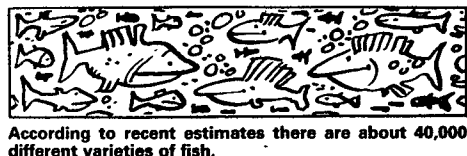

The National Audubon Society — sometimes called the birds' best friend — holds two week-long camps in Field Ecology in Maine. This year they start on June 29; July 13; July 27; and August 10. The one-week camp programs called Field Ornithology workshops begin Aug. 24 and Sept. 1. If you are new to the wonders of the great outdoors, you could find the National Audubon Society's program especially helpful. As a matter of fact, the people who run these camps feature introductory courses designed to teach you how to appreciate the environment as you may never have before. Be sure to pack at

Ole Miss baseball camp set June 8-12, 15-19

University of Mississippi Baseball Coach Jake Gibbs has lined up some serious baseball instruction — along with some fun — for boys attending the 1986 Ole Miss Baseball Camp. Two sessions of the camp are scheduled June 8-12 and June 15-19 on the Ole Miss campus for boys ages 10 through 197 high school seniors, and each will feature individual conditioning and development.
"We plan to stress basic fundamentals and essential skills of the game, along with instruction in the techniques of throwing, hitting, running and fielding," said Gibbs.
In addition to calisthenics and conditioning skills, all campers will receive individual instruction and will study theory, rules, play situations, game films, leadership and sportsmanship.

The fee for resident campers is $175. Campers may pay a deposit of $75 with the balance of $100 due on registration day on the Ole Miss campus. The fee includes the cost of instruction, housing, meals, accident insurance and an Ole Miss Baseball Camp shirt. Participants may also register as day campers for a reduced fee of $118, which does not include meals or housing.
The deposit for day campers is $58, with the balance of $60 due on the day of registration. Each camp will be limited to 70 participants, and registration is on a first-come, first-served basis.
Further information about the 1986 Ole Miss Baseball Camp is available from the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677; telephone 601-232-7282.

ASK OCHSNER

Q. I've been exercising outdoors recently in the heat and would like to know how to avoid getting heat stroke or heat exhaustion. Also, what is the difference, if any, between the two? CD, Ocean Springs, Ms.
A. According to Dr. Richard Y. McConnell, chairman of Ochsner's emergency department, heat exhaustion is when a person is still perspiring, has a slightly elevated temperature and may feel weak or fatigued. Usually a person can prevent heat exhaustion by moving to a cool place, drinking plenty of liquids and resting. Heat stroke is a more severe malady, however.
A person suffering from heat stroke will feel dry to the touch, due to dehydration, have a high fever (about 105 to 106 degrees) and may be comatose. Convulsions may also occur. A person suffering from heat stroke will have to be hospitalized and immediately given fluids. Bouts with heat stroke are rare except among the very young or elderly and with the prevalent outdoor activity in the summer months, heat exhaustion will be the more common of the two. Dr. McConnell says most people can tell when they are getting too hot by their discomfort and will usually stop the activity.

Also, most people will want to drink a lot because of the body's natural thirst mechanism. But, he says, that quench of thirst is usually a little behind what the body actually needs—which is about one-half times more liquid than you'd normally drink.
This is why drinking a lot of liquids before and after exercising is important. When drinking fluids, Dr. McConnell says to make sure they are cold and diluted. The colder and more dilute the fluid, he says, the quicker it will be absorbed into the body.

Cold fluids will not cause stomach cramps like warm fluids for this reason. When working or exercising outdoors, it's important to consciously stop every thirty minutes to drink fluids to replace what's been lost due to perspiration.
Alcohol can dehydrate a person out in the heat, so alternating beverages (non-alcoholic and alcoholic) is a good idea, too, he says. When dressing for exercise wear light-colored, loose-fitting clothing to keep cool.
On hot, humid days try to rest in the shade or get some air on your body by fanning yourself. Unless the perspiration on your body evaporates, Dr. McConnell says, it will not cool the body which is important in avoiding heat exhaustion. This is particularly important on days when the relative humidity is the same as the temperature, so evaporation occurs slowly.
People who are most susceptible to heat exhaustion as mentioned before are small children and the elderly. These people and anyone on certain medications such as antihistamines must stay out of the heat, if possible, and drink plenty of liquids to help prevent heat stroke or heat exhaustion from occurring.

New facilities open on Ship Island

A newly constructed, concession operated snack bar facility is now open and operating on Ship Island, Superintendent Jerry Eubanks reported.

Connected to the concession facility by a covered walkway are newly constructed restrooms, showers and a shaded seating area for approximately 60 people.

These new facilities all located on the south beach of Ship Island, have been under construction since the Fall of 1985, with the majority of the labor being performed by park maintenance employees.

"We are very proud of the work that has taken place out there, it should provide a much more pleasant and comfortable visit for people while they are out at Ship Island," said Eubanks.

The concession facility will be selling cold drinks, ice, sundries and beach supplies from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. daily.

Ship Island, part of the Gulf Islands National Seashore is located approximately 12 miles off the coast of Mississippi and is accessible by private boat or concession operated tour boats that depart daily from boat docks at Gulfport and/or Biloxi.

The fees for riding the tour boats are $10 for adults and $4 for children ages 3 to 10; children under the age of 3 ride for free.

The Biloxi boats depart daily at 9 a.m. returning to the Biloxi dock at 1:30 p.m.

A second boat departs Biloxi at 2:30 p.m. arriving back to the dock at 6:45 p.m.

The Gulfport boat has three scheduled departures for Ship Island at 9 a.m. returning to Gulfport at 1:45 p.m., 11:30 a.m. returning to the dock at 3:45 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. arriving back in Gulfport at 6:45 p.m. In addition to these new facilities, and the bathing beaches, Ship Island is also the location of historic Fort Massachusetts.

The fort is open daily from 10:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. for self-guided touring. Guided tours are offered at 11 a.m. and 4:14 p.m. daily.

Located inside Fort Massachusetts is "The Guardroom," a small exhibit area that offers a variety of items for sale on the cultural and natural themes of the area. A program on the variety of marine life associated with Ship Island is offered on Saturdays and Sundays at 2:30 p.m.

Lake Seminole offers varied hunting opportunities with plentiful deer and quail, some turkeys, rabbits, squirrels, ducks and doves. Racks of deer antlers displayed on the walls at Jack Wingate's Lunker Lodge, one of the rustic hideaways that has hosted many a celebrity, attest to the good hunting in the woodlands surrounding Lake Seminole. Seminole is also alligator country—but woe to the person who harms one!

Wildlife management areas have been designated in both Florida and Georgia and are jointly managed by the Corps and state wildlife agencies. Within both states there are approximately 15,000 acres available as wildlife management areas. Hunters are encouraged to check state and local regulations.

Besides Wingate's Lunker Lodge at Hutchinson's Ferry Landing, there are other privately-operated concessions offering marinas, restaurants, boat and motor rentals, and overnight accommodations. These include Farramore Landing, Butler's Ferry Landing, Spring Creek or Reynold's Landing, Seminole Sportsman's Lodge and Marina, Inc., and Sneads Landing or Seminole Lodge.

be found at Lake Seminole, a Corps of Engineers recreation area just outside Chattahoochee, Fla.

Now it's being discovered by campers as well.

Lake Seminole is located at the confluence of the Chattahoochee and Flint Rivers and crosses the Florida-Georgia state lines with the majority of the 37,500-acre lake lying inside the state of Georgia. Completed in 1957, the Jim Woodruff Dam formed the lake. The purposes of project construction accomplished by the Corps of Engineers included navigation and hydroelectric power generation.

Varied recreation opportunities are the bonuses for nature lovers.

Lake Seminole has become a renowned fishing location for anglers from all areas of the United States. Besides the varieties already mentioned, there are sizable populations of catfish, perch, crappie, bluegills, and bream. The spring and fall months have proven to be the best fishing times.

But there is a lot more than fish to be found at Lake Seminole.

One of the area's greatest assets is its rustic charm. Resource managers over the years have taken pride in protecting the natural appearance of the area with the result that every turn of the road brings a vista of scenic beauty.

The Corps-operated East Bank Public Use Area near Jim Woodruff Dam is a fee area. It offers a public boat launching ramp, tent and trailer camping area, comfort station, drinking water, picnic area, bath houses, a dump station, a water skiing area, and a breathtaking view of the lake and woodlands.

The resource manager's office is continuing its ongoing program to make picnicking and other outdoor recreation even more enjoyable for visitors to Lake Seminole. At Sneads Park on the Florida side, two boat launch ramps are being constructed along with parking spaces for 50 automobiles, picnic shelters and comfort stations. A long fishing pier will be built, and 800 tons of white sand will be hauled in to beautify the beach. Electrical power feeds are underground.

HATTIESBURG—The University of Southern Mississippi will host a cheerleader camp July 22-25.

State parks

entrance fees
effective July 1

Beginning July 1, an entrance fee will be charged for visitors to Mississippi state parks.

The entry fees are expected to bring in additional revenue to help offset significant legislative budget cuts to the state park system, park officials report.

The fees, authorized by House Bill 1369, are:

Private vehicles, $1 per vehicle, plus 25 cents per person over 4 people; buses, 25 cents per person; pedestrians/bicyclists, 25 cents per person; motorcycles, $1 per vehicle; and boat launch and entrance $4.50.

All Mississippi residents may purchase an annual entrance permit for $10. This permit will be available at all state parks beginning July 1, and will allow the visitor unlimited entry to any Mississippi state park.

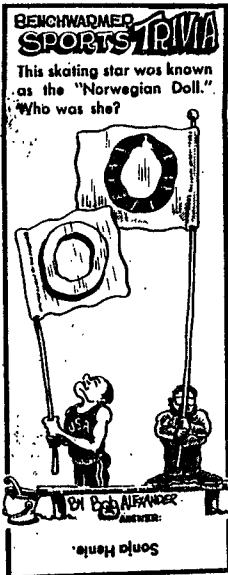

For a complete schedule of fees in the Mississippi state park system, write State Park Fees, Box 20305, Jackson, MS 39209, or telephone 961-5014.

Coach J. Larry Ladner, basketball specialist and a faculty member in the USM Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching, will lead the seminar along with other outstanding staff members selected as lecturers for the seminar.

Participants will receive three semester hours of graduate credit for AAC 672 Special Athletic Problems: Basketball, which may be Registration for the seminar must be completed by June 9, 1986. Participants may register in Room 306 of McLemore Hall during any of the following times: Mondays-Fridays, 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturday, June 7, 9-11 a.m.; or Monday, June 9, 9:30-10:30 a.m. in the lobby of McLemore Hall.

Class assignments will be handed out to participants for study prior to the beginning of formal classroom sessions. Formal classroom sessions will run from 9 a.m. on Monday, June 16, through 5 p.m. on Friday, June 20. There will be one evening session on Wednesday, June 18, from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Other course activities, including outside projects approved by the instructor, will be scheduled within the allotted course time.

The tuition fee for three semester hours of graduate credit is $162 and may be paid in advance, with a $25 pre-registration deposit required. University housing may be

Bay Junior High students take Presidential Academic Awards

The Presidential Academic Fitness-Awards program was initiated by President Reagan in 1983 to motivate students to meet their full academic potential, and to recognize those students who excel scholastically.

The requirements for students in junior high include students who have attained a B+ average or equivalent, accumulated in the junior high, including the first semester of the exit (last) grade.

Students must have also received a recent score placing them at or above the 80th percentile on any nationally recognized standardized achievement test battery.

The following students of Bay Junior High have been recognized as recipients of the award. David Culley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Culley; Holli DeCamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rieben; Tammy Ehrlich, daughter of Mrs. Sharon Ehrlich; Toynia Hardee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardee; Jennifer Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ladner; P. J. Mauffray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Mauffray; Micah Necaise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Necaise; Teresa Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Roberson; Ana Maria Scaffidi, daughter of Mrs. Maria Landry; Amy Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Simpson; and Angie Weems, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Weems.

Lovelace named writing judge

The National Council of Teachers of English announces the appointment of Mrs. Kay Lovelace of Hancock North Central, as a regional judge for the 1986 NCTE Achievement Awards in Writing.

Through this nationally recognized competition, now in its 29th year, approximately 800 high school seniors are cited for excellence in writing and are recommended to colleges and universities for admission and for financial aid, if needed. Over 8,000 students were nominated for NCTE awards in 1985. Results are announced in October of each year.

Students are nominated for Achievement Awards in Writing by their high school English departments and are chosen for recognition by state judging committees.

Each nominee submits an impromptu theme and a sample of his or her best writing to be judged.

The regional judging committees are composed of both high school and college teachers who work under the direction of state coordinators.

The National Council of Teachers of English is made up of more than 90,000 individual teachers and institutional members at all levels of instruction, from elementary school through graduate college.

Its goal is more effective teaching of English language and literature in the nation's schools and colleges. NCTE publishes journals, books and recordings to aid teachers in the classroom and in their professional development.

International Review of African American Art in an article on Barthe noted, "...there is one place Barthe holds sacred, and that is Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, with its people whom he loves dearly." Barthe describes himself as having a French name, but as a person who in reality is of polyglot ethnicity. On his mother's side were African, French, Spanish and Choctaw Indian. His father's background was similar, including African, French, Spanish and Creek Indian ancestors. He was born January 28, 1901, son of Richmond Barthe and Clementine Raboteau. Summer Reading Program registration continues Elementary-aged children are encouraged to join the Summer Reading program at any library in the Hancock County Library System. Pre-registration for the program, continues through June 7.

"Summer reading keeps children reading during the months away from school," according to Becky Mitchum Keefer, children's librarian. "A weekly activity is also presented at each library," said Keefer.

Activities begin Tuesday, June 12 at 10 a.m. at Kiln Library on Hwy. 603 with a helium-balloon release.

Balloons will also be released at Waveland Library on Coleman Avenue Wednesday, June 11 at 10 a.m. and at Bay St. Louis Library on US-90 Thursday, June 12 at 10 a.m.

Children may register for the program through June 21. When registering each child is given a reading record, membership card and bookmark. He decides how many books to read during the summer and records them. If he reads the number of books he signed up for, a certificate is awarded at the end of the program.

For more information, call the main library at 467-5282.

EMILE HAZEUR, a 1985 graduate of St. Stanislaus, graduated on May 17 from the United States Air Force Preparatory School in Colorado Springs, Colo. He consequently received an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy as a member of the Class of 1990. Hazeur is the son of Mrs. Lucy Hazeur of Pass Christian and Emile Hazeur Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

USM's adult student population growing

HATTIESBURG - New opportunities for adult students to pursue college degrees are resulting in a significant non-traditional student population increase at the University of Southern Mississippi.

"I had 50 new adult students come in for the spring semester," said Carol Guice, coordinator of USM's Adult Studies Program. "Nationwide - and it certainly is reflected on the USM campus - the number of non-traditional students is increasing dramatically."

Some 600 students this spring were served by USM's Adult Studies Program, which so far has organized 21 possible graduate and undergraduate degrees that can be earned on a non-traditional schedule. A part of USM's Division of Lifelong Learning, the Adult Studies Program was begun in the fall of 1985.

"The adult studies program was designed for persons who have job, family and community obligations that prevent them from attending classes on the traditional, daytime schedule," Guice explains.

The program provides an orderly sequence of courses that meet in late afternoon, evening, weekend or intersession formats. Also, some courses are offered at off-campus extension facilities.

Michael Lester of Hattiesburg, a 33-year old husband and father, began taking courses through the Adult Studies Program last fall. A computer technician at South Mississippi Electric Power Association, Lester said he wanted to increase his knowledge of computer hardware and become a more productive employee.

"Everything in computers is changing at such a rapid pace, you can stagnate easily," explains Lester. "If an employee comes across things he's not familiar with, I feel it is his responsibility to improve himself. If he considers himself a professional...This adult studies program has opened that kind of door for me."

ETV lists new summer weekday schedule

When school's out for the summer, ETV's daytime programming schedule takes a break, too. Instead of broadcasting instructional series intended for use in the classroom, ETV will air lots of TV goodies for both children and adults.

The new daytime schedule begins Monday, June 2. Programs for children are scheduled for 8 a.m. to noon and 4 to 6 p.m. They include the following:

- "Reading Rainbow," the popular series for beginning readers aged 5 to 8, is hosted by actor LeVar Burton again this year. This series transports youngsters into the magical world of children's books. New programs this year will focus on science themes. "Reading Rainbow" will air at 9:30 and 11:30, weekdays.

- "The Secret City" with Commander Mark systematically teaches children aged 6 to 12 how to draw. It airs at 11 on weekdays.

- "OWL/TV" is a science series for children aged 7 to 12. It features real kids working with wildlife, science and technology and will be broadcast at 10 on Wednesdays.

- "Sesame Street," the longtime favorite, will continue to air at 4:30 on weekday afternoons but is scheduled for 8 instead of 7 in the morning.

- Adults will have an opportunity to see these specials, among others.

- "The Shakespeare Hour with Walther Matthau," a series about the world's greatest playwright and his works, has Matthau as guide. This series presents the genius of Shakespeare in a way that is both understandable to the novice and enlightening to the Shakespeare buff. It will air at 1:30, Mondays.

- "Bridge Basics" is a how-to-play bridge series. It airs at noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

- "Aloha China," the Chinese cooking series hosted by chef Titus Chan, will air at noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

- Two adventure series, "Risking It All" and "Great Mountain Adventures," are scheduled for 1:30 and 2, respectively, on Fridays.

- Rebroadcasts of popular public television series are included in the schedule, too. They include the following.

- "Nature," a series of science documentaries, airs at 12:30, Mondays.

- "Austin City Limits," a country music series, will be broadcast at 1 on Tuesdays.

- "Nova," the science and technology documentary series, will air at 1 p.m., Wednesdays.

AN EARLY SUMMER SALAD

At last! We can stop relying on the canned, frozen, and trucked-in produce that has sustained us all winter, because the real thing is finally here—fresh vegetables straight from the garden or the farmers' market, bursting with flavor and nutrition.

With all this seasonal goodness available, it's time to center lots of meals around vegetables. Here's a hearty main dish that uses the first arrivals of summer: tangy green onions, crunchy carrots, bright green peas, and rich-tasting spinach. It's best when made ahead of time—so, on a busy summer evening, all you have to do is take dinner out of the refrigerator and serve. And if you make this layered salad in a glass bowl, you'll have an attractive and eye-catching dish, one that says to your family and friends, "Let's celebrate the beginning of summer's harvest!"

- 1-1/2 cups mayonnaise
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ground coriander
- 1-1/2 cups orange sections; save any juice
- 1 bunch fresh spinach, washed, stemmed, and drained
- 1 medium cucumber, peeled, halved lengthwise, and sliced
- 1/2 cup chopped green onion
- 1 cup fresh peas, blanched
- 1 cup sliced fresh carrots
- 1-1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 8 eggs, hard-cooked and sliced

Combine the mayonnaise, curry powder, and coriander with 2 tablespoons orange juice, mix well, and set aside. Tear the spinach into bite-size pieces and place them in the bottom of a 2" X 9" X 13" casserole, or large glass salad bowl. Layer the remaining ingredients in the order listed, reserving a few orange and egg slices for decoration. Spread the mayonnaise mixture over the top, clear to the edges of the dish. Garnish, cover, and refrigerate overnight. Include a portion of each layer in every serving. Serves 8.

Q: Is it true that taking diet pills will help a student make better grades?

(R.M. Laurel)

A: No! The various types of "diet pills" are usually an amphetamine or a substance with similar actions on the body. These drugs have little medically accepted use.

Among the effects are nervousness, excitability, and they will cause sleeplessness. Even though they may allow you to stay awake, they cause such nervous energy that it is more difficult to concentrate or study.

If you would like to ask a question, address it to Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, P.O. Box 6462, Jackson, MS 39212.

Big B reports income hike

Big B, Inc. (OTC symbol BIG B) reports record sales and earnings for its fiscal first quarter which ended May 10, 1986.

Net income rose 28.4 percent to $1,619,000 from $1,261,000 in the prior year. Earnings per common share rose to $0.24 from $0.19.

Sales for the 14-week period increased 20.7 percent to $54,386,000 from $45,028,000 in the prior year.

The company's expansion program continued during the quarter with the opening of eight new Big B Discount Drug stores. The new stores were located in Pulaski, Tenn.; Quitman, Ga.; Panama City, Fla.; and Anniston, Tuscaloosa and Birmingham, Ala.

Subsequent to May 10, stores were opened in Century, Fla. and Mobile, Ala. bringing the current store count to 143.

Big B, Inc. operates a chain of 143 stores including 134 Big B Discount Drug stores located in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Tennessee and Mississippi, including stores on US-90 in Waveland and Pass Christian; five B-Mart Food and Drug stores in Alabama, and four Big B Home Health Care Centers in Alabama and Georgia.

In addition, the company plans to open another 30 outlets this year around the southeast, President Anthony J. Bruno said Tuesday.

During the next five years, "our expansion will be focused in the states of Georgia and Tennessee," he said at the company's annual meeting. "The economy is very good in those states and unemployment is low."

Rapid expansion helped the company to record sales last year, but profits suffered. While sales rose 18.5 percent to $175 million, profits dipped 9.1 percent to $4 million.

Bruno said the fall in profits came from the high costs of the November opening of the company's new $7 million, 240,000-square-foot distribution center and corporate headquarters in Bessemer, Ala.

Power company CEO joins bank advisory board

Alan R. Barton, Gulfport businessman and civic leader, has been elected to the Advisory Board of Directors of Hancock Bank.

Hancock Holding Company Chairman Basil Noble Jr. and Leo W. Seal Jr., president and chief executive officer, said Barton, president and chief executive officer of Mississippi Power Company, came to the company in 1980 as president and chief operating officer.

He was formerly executive vice president of Alabama Power Company, where he was employed in 1948 as a junior engineer.

He is on the board of directors of Mississippi Power Company, The Southern Company, Southern Company Services, Inc., Southern Electric International Inc., and the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta - New Orleans Branch.

He is chairman of the Mississippi Economic Council.

He holds bachelor's degrees in electrical and mechanical engineering from Tulane and Auburn Universities, as well as a master's degree in business administration from the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Barton, a native of West Haven, Conn., lives in Gulfport with his wife, Sue.

Real estate firm guarantees sale

The days of worrying about selling a house may be over. Electronic Realty Associates has developed a program that guarantees the company will buy your house if it is not sold within 210 days.

Herb Dubuison, broker for ERA Bayshore Realty in Waveland, said the program called the Sellers Security Plan, provides a guaranteed purchase of the existing home plus an equity advance toward the purchase of another home.

"The plan is available to families moving across town as well as families transferred across the country," said Dubuison.

Under the plan, ERA provides the seller with a signed contract guaranteeing the home will sell at a price agreed upon in advance. ERA Real Estate will buy the property if it is not sold within 210 days. An equity advance of up to $100,000 is available as part of the plan.

"Any profit from later resale of the original property is then shared equally with the former owner, after deduction of any expenses incurred by ERA Real Estate," Dubuison noted.

"The program is limited to resale homes appraised at more than $30,000 up to a maximum offer price of $175,000."

ERA Real Estate is an international real estate franchise with 12,200 offices in the U.S., Australia, Japan, and Singapore.

YOUR HEALTH

Someone remarked the other day that he didn't know Chiropractic care could do anything for headaches. Similar remarks may be heard from time to time concerning other conditions of the body. Even patients, upon recovery from one ailment through Chiropractic, are sometimes unaware that adjustments also can correct the cause of Nerve Interference which creates other illnesses and conditions! The point is that Chiropractic care is not really limited to correcting backaches as most people think, but is an all around health service. Doctors of Chiropractic realize there are conditions necessitating surgery and will not hesitate to recommend those services when they deem it necessary. In fact, your doctor of Chiropractic would not accept your case if he didn't feel it would be the best all around approach to your problem.

Experts agree: Certified Angus Beef is the tenderest, best tasting beef in America. And now, by special arrangement with the American Angus Association this top quality beef is available to you at National Super Markets.

ONLY ONE IN FOUR IS GOOD ENOUGH
 The Certified Angus Beef stamp of approval carries such high quality standards that only one in four, just 25% of all the Angus cattle tested, are accepted. By contrast, the USDA Choice rating is given to 90% of all beef graded. Even beef advertised as "Black Angus" offers no assurance that it could pass Certified Angus Beef inspections.

THE DIFFERENCE IS IN THE MARBLING
 The difference between an average steak and a tender, juicy Certified Angus steak is the marbling — the small flecks of white throughout the beef. The marbling in Certified Angus Beef insures a better tasting cut of meat every time.

EVEN OUR TRIMMING IS SPECIAL
 To make sure you get the very best value our meat department trims each cut of Certified Angus Beef to a maximum of 1/2 inch of fat. This not only saves you money but helps make Certified Angus Beef lower in cholesterol than skinned chicken.

LOOK FOR THE SHIELD
 So, if you're looking for the best tasting beef in America, just look for the special Certified Angus Beef section in our fresh meat case. The Certified Angus Beef shield guarantees that you'll be serving beef that's better than USDA Choice, better than "Black Angus" and even more highly selected than USDA Prime.

RULES AND HOW TO PLAY:

1. No purchase necessary to participate. Receive a FREE game ticket and collector card on request at the checkout counter or store office. Limit one ticket per adult each store visit per day.
2. TO PLAY: Simply punch out the perforated portion of the game ticket to reveal your four markers. Each marker corresponds to an appropriate square on the collector card. For example, if one of your markers is $50 in the $100 game, insert that marker in the correct square on the collector card. Free squares do not require a marker. Free squares are not transferable.
3. TO WIN: Ranger Pickup/Escort Pony, $1,000 and $100 games play just like regular bingo: complete a row down, across or diagonally. If one of your markers reads: "You Win $5," "You Win $2," or "You Win $1," simply place the marker and collect your prize immediately from any authorized store personnel upon verification.
4. TO CLAIM A PRIZE: All markers which are not part of the winning row should be removed and transferred to a new collector card. Customer must submit and sign the collector card and initial the front of each marker in the winning row in the presence of an authorized store representative who will arrange for verification. Instant Winners of $1, $2 and $5 cash may be verified and paid at the store upon such verification. Once the submitted prize claim has been verified by the sponsor, the prize will be awarded. All game materials submitted for verification become the property of the game sponsor and cannot be returned. All tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winner.

5. All game materials will be rejected and judged VOID if not obtained from and verified by authorized personnel or if any part of the game piece is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Any attempt to defraud or to forge game materials in any way will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. Game materials VOID where taxed or prohibited by law.

6. Game ends when all game tickets are distributed. All prizes must be claimed within seven (7) days after termination of game or prizes are forfeited. If prize claims for prizes in any category exceed number of prizes advertised, then the prize, as it relates to that specific prize category, shall immediately terminate without notice and any prize claim submitted at or after that time shall automatically be rejected.
7. Only game materials with authentic scratch and value are valid.
8. Prizes are awarded to the person who has completed the game materials and submitted them to the sponsor. Game materials submitted to anyone other than the sponsor are not eligible for prizes.
